NOT A SICK DAY
For Over Thirty Years!
RESULT OF USING
AYER'S PILLS

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills for over thirty years have kept me in good health, never having had a sick day in all that time. Before I was twenty I suffered almost continually—as a result of constipation—from dyspepsia, headaches, neuralgia, or boils and other eruptive diseases. When I became convinced that nine-tenths of my troubles were caused by constipation, I began the use of Ayer's Pills, with the most satisfactory results, never having a single attack that did not readily yield to this remedy. My wife, who had been an invalid for years, also began to use Ayer's Pills, and her health was quickly restored. With my children I had noticed that nearly all their ailments were preceded by constipation, and I soon had the pleasure of knowing that with children as with parents, Ayer's Pills, if taken in season, avert all danger of sickness."—H. MAYO AT REHEARSAL

HOW THE FAMOUS ACTOR TRAINED THE MEMBERS OF HIS COMPANY.

His Fondness For "Pudd'nhead Wilson." Ambitious Attempts as a Manager Which Failed—His Besetting Penchant For Arguing Was His Worst Fault.

"The late Frank Mayo, whose sudden death on a train near Omaha was such a painful shock to the whole dramatic profession, was one of the most severe and at the same time most just managers that it has ever been my pleasure to act under," said Henry Davenport, son of E. L. Davenport, the tragedian, and one of the managers of the Girard Avenue theater of this city. "He knew how a part should be played and insisted on the actor playing it in that way if it took 50 rehearsals to perfect the role according to Mr. Mayo's ideas."

Mr. Davenport created the role of Judge Driscoll in "Pudd'nhead Wilson," Mayo's last success, and played it during the New York run of the production. "During the rehearsals previous to the first production of 'Pudd'nhead Wilson,'" continued Mr. Davenport, "Mr. Mayo acted every role in the play for the purpose of showing the members of the company how he wanted it played. He took infinite pains to see that every line was perfectly read, every accent properly placed and every bit of business brought out clearly, effectively and naturally. I would not have it understood that in this matter Mr. Mayo was a martinet or one who assumed to know it all. No one admired originality more than he. He liked to see an actor give his own conception of a part, but when this was done he demanded a reason for everything.

"This was one of his peculiar traits. If a member of the company made a gesture or a pause or emphasized a word in a new or original manner, Mr. Mayo would say, 'Now, why do you do that?' He would get to the bottom of the idea, and, if a good reason was advanced for it, it found ready acceptance. He was this way in everything. I remember that he taught me fencing when I was a mere boy, and in return I taught him what I knew about boxing. I usually boxed about one minute and explained 15. I would make a lead or a counter or a guard, and Mr. Mayo would say: 'Stop, now. Why do you do that?' And when he was teaching me fencing he would make a thrust or a parry and then stop to say, 'Now, you see, I do this because,' etc.

"But to come back to 'Pudd'nhead Wilson.' Mr. Mayo loved that play as he loved his children. I remember some time before the play was produced he became convinced that it needed pruning. Something had to be cut out, but he hadn't the heart to do it. So he went to my brother-in-law and said: 'Here is this play of mine. I know it needs cutting down, but I can't do it. It is almost as much to me as one of my children. I have gone over line after line and said: 'I can't cut this out, nor this, nor this. I can't cut anything out. So I want some disinterested person to do it for me.' And when the play was produced, though he alone was responsible for the dramatization, he gave all the credit for the success to Mark Twain in an address he made before the curtain the first night. That was his nature.

"Its great success was very gratifying to Mr. Mayo, and he deserved it. He wasted several fortunes in the effort to give the public first class productions of the classical drama, which they would not receive. Mayo's famous 'Forty' was one of the best equipped companies for the production of Shakespeare and other standard plays that ever left New York. We carried everything, even suppers, but the people would have none of us. The same treatment was accorded Mr. Mayo's 'Nordeck,' his adaptation of 'The Three Guardsmen' and several other classical efforts. But he rose superior to all these setbacks. It was hard that his life should end just as he was once more on the road to fortune.

"Mr. Mayo's county seat at Canton, Pa., adjoined that of my father. It was at his home that the noble man was seen at his best—and his worst. His worst consisted of a penchant for arguing. Mr. Mayo loved to argue, and he would never let up until you acknowledged yourself convinced or fell into silence in admiration of his earnestness, his sincerity and his marvelous command of language and voice. Mr. Mayo had on the grounds of his estate a little French chalet, which he bought at the Centennial exposition in this city. He used it for a study, and there he would sit until 9 o'clock at night, when he would suddenly remember that he ought to have supper and proceed slowly to the house. Most always he would find Mrs. Mayo, my mother, his daughter, now Mrs. Elverson, and myself engaged in a game of whist. Mr. Mayo would enter the room slowly and take a position behind his daughter's chair. Finally she would make a play which her father didn't think was good, and he would break in with, 'Now, Nellie, why did you play that card?' The game would end soon after that, for Mr. Mayo would insist upon arguing the point with Nellie and kill the interest in the game at once.

"Mr. Mayo once told me that he had discovered the secret of true elocution. You must emphasize only those words which could be left out of a sentence without destroying the sense, he argued. Thus, in the sentence, 'Get thee behind me, satan,' he maintained that 'thee' and 'me' were the words that stress should be laid upon. Manifestly that was wrong, though up to a certain point his theory was correct. But I didn't attempt to argue the point with him. When acting, he was always trying new readings of lines, and we never knew when he was going to spring a new emphasis upon us. He was a lovable friend, an efficient manager and a brilliant actor. To work with him was a pleasure."—Philadelphia North American.

He Gave His Life.

The author of "Tales of an Engineer" pays a tribute to the memory of a man of his own craft who stuck to his engine, knowing that his death alone could lessen the danger of those in his charge.

The train had crossed a bridge and was approaching a tunnel, which, being on the shadow side of the hill, looked like a great hole in the night. Nearer the engine the engineer saw a number of dark objects scattered about. In another second he discerned what these were and realized an awful danger.

As he reversed the engine and applied the airbrakes he shouted to the fireman to jump. He might have jumped himself, for he saw the danger first, but no such thought came to him. In another second the pilot was plowing through a herd of cattle asleep on the track.

If they had all been standing, he would have opened the throttle and sent them flying into the river with less risk to his train.

But they were lying down, and as they rolled under the wheels they lifted the great engine from the rails and threw her down the dump at the very edge of the river.

But so well had the faithful engineer performed his work that the train was stopped without wrecking a car. Many of the passengers were not awakened.

The trainmen came forward and found the engineer. He was able to speak to them. He knew that he had but a few minutes to live and left a loving message for his wife. Then, as if he had nothing more to say or do, he closed his eyes, folded his hands over his brave heart and without a murmur, apparently without pain, died.

People Were Allowed to Look.

The late Lord Bath was one of the first territorial magnates in the south of England to throw open his country seat to the public. Visitors have been for many years past free to walk where they please about Longleat park—which is extremely beautiful and 16 miles in circumference—and to inspect the gardens and grounds, while boats are provided for them on the large lake, which is a notable feature in the domain. The interesting house, with its pictures, library and art treasures of every description, has also been open to thousands of visitors every year.

Longleat was built during the reign of Elizabeth, and the house has never been much altered in appearance, although all kinds of improvements have been carried out. The late Lord Bath built the stables, which are very fine. One prominent feature in the park is a wooded hill which, from the magnificent prospect which it commands, is known as Heaven's gate. The Bath estates in Somersetshire and Wiltshire were in very bad order when the late owner succeeded his father in 1837, but they are now in perfect condition in all respects, and there is not a single vacant farm.—London World.

A Shrewd Market Woman.

The shrewdness and loquacity of market women—a craft numbering more members in the old world than in the new—are proverbial, and the following anecdote in Mr. Doran's book on "Table Traits" bears witness to the justice of their reputation:

A member of the sisterhood in Bristol, England, had a £10 pound Bank of England note and wished to exchange it for gold, which was then at a high premium. Accordingly she entered a bank and made known her request, to be met with instant refusal.

The quick witted woman, without exhibiting any disappointment, thereupon asked the cashier to let her have ten of the bank's £1 notes in exchange for her Bank of Englander. The exchange being completed, the old woman, taking up one of the provincial notes, read aloud the promise engraved upon it to pay the bearer in cash.

"Very good," said she, with a chuckle, "now gi' me goold for your note, or I'll run to the door and call out, 'Bank's broke.'"

There was no resisting this appeal, and the market woman departed in triumph.

A Reason For Not Marrying.

Pretty Teacher (severely)—Did your mother write this excuse?

Bad Boy—Yes'm.

Pretty Teacher—Humph! It looks very much like one of your scrawls.

Bad Boy—Mamma wrote it; but, please, ma'am, she had sister Jennie on one arm crying with a bumped head and brother Willie on the other with a cut finger, and a lot of sewing on her lap, and she was rocking the cradle with her knees, and she had to write with her toes.

Pretty Teacher (in the evening)—I am very sorry, Mr. Poorchap, but I have changed my mind. I shall never marry. —Pearson's Weekly.

A Gigantic Advertisement.

Near Ardenlee, Scotland, there is a wonderful advertisement, made of flower beds. The beds are each a gigantic letter 40 feet in length, the whole forming the words "Glasgow News." The total length of the line is 123 feet; area covered by the letters, 14,845 feet. The advertisement is situated on the side of a hill, and, being of bright colored flowers, can be read from a distance of 4½ miles.—St. Louis Republic.

Impossible.

"Do I understand you to say that this man never made a statement that was not true?"

"That was what I said."

The questioner laughed long and loud.

"Impossible," he said. "Absurd! Preposterous! Why, he's a government weather prophet."—London Tit-Bits.

Crocodile Dying Out.

The crocodile is not as numerous in the Nile as he was in the days of the Rameses family—in fact, he rather shuns the river now below the second cataract, on account of the annoyances inseparable from tourist traffic.

INDEX-TRIBUNE

SONOMA, SEPTEMBER 5, 1896.

M. H. GRANICE - - - - - - - - - - - - EDITOR.

THE Gold Democrats in session at Indianapolis, on Wednesday last, nominated Senator John M. Palmer of Illionis for President and General Buckner of Kentucky for Vice President. The head of the ticket is one of the most prominent and influential Democrats of his State. General Buckner served in the Confederate army all through the Civil War. The ticket will undoubtedly break the "Solid South" and enhance the election of McKinley.

WM. F. HERRIN, attorney for the Southern Pacific Company, has placed us under obligations for a copy of his argument before Judge McKenna of the Circuit Court of the United States in the celebrated suit of the Southern Pacific Company vs. The State Board of Railroad Commissioners. Mr. Herrin's argument in this case stamps him as one of the ablest lawyers in California and we do not wonder that the S. P. Co. has secured his services.

THE County Central Committee of the Peoples' Party has ordered a primary election in Sonoma on Thursday, September 10th, for the purpose of nominating a county ticket. Sonoma is entitled to two delegates. As we are all Democrats and Republicans down this way we would like to know where in the devil the two delegates are to come from.

THE Republicans carried Vermont last Tuesday by a plurality of 38,000. In 1892 the State went Republican by 19,402 only.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

DEATH OF A PIONEER MOTHER

Mrs. H. F. Bates Passes Peacefully Away.

Mrs. H. F. Bates, for forty years a residence of Sonoma Valley, died in the arms of her grandson, Henry Bates, on Monday evening a few minutes after 9 o'clock.

The deceased, who was aged 81 years, had long been an invalid, and had resided for years with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Millie Bates, Sonoma's Postmistress.

Grandma Bates, as she was affectionately called, was the mother of Theodore Bates, the deceased husband of Mrs. Millie Bates. She crossed the plains by ox-team in 1854 with her husband, long since dead, and two years later located in this valley, where she resided continuously up to the day of her death.

The old lady, who had been failing slowly but surely the past few months, was visited by her grandson Henry Bates, on Monday evening last, who had been in the habit of making daily visits to her bedside. She asked for a glass of water, after drinking which she said she felt somewhat better. Her grandson then lifted her up from the bed in order that a change of bedding might be made, when the old lady gave two faint gasps and passed peacefully away in the arms of her grandson.

The funeral took place Wednesday at 1 o'clock and was largely attended, the remains being laid to rest beside those of her son in Mountain Cemetery.

On a Visit to His Old Home in Switzerland.

Chas. Filippini, one of Sonoma Valley's wealthy and prosperous Swiss dairymen, left on a visit to his mother in Switzerland on Thursday last. He was accompanied by his wife and seven of his ten children. Mr. Filippini, who has been in Callfornia for 29 years, visited his old home about nineteen years ago, since which time he has not seen his mother, who is now over 70 years of age. Mr. Filippini will be absent at least seven or eight months and probably for a year. Valente, his eldest son, is a student at the Santa Clara College and could not leave his studies to accompany the family on their long journey. Mr. and Mrs. Filippini have many friends in Sonoma and Marin counties who wish them a pleasant visit and a safe return.

Worthily Bestowed.

J. Gundlach & Co., owners of the Rhinefarm vineyards in the eastern suburbs of town, have a magnificent display of the products of their vineyards at the Mechanics' Fair, San Francisco. The fair opened last Tuesday evening, and three prizes were offered for the most complete and attractive exhibit on the opening day. One of these, $75 in coin, was awarded to J. Gundlach & Co. The prize was most worthily bestowed, as there is no more enterprising wine house in the State.

Heavy Wood Contract.

E. M. Esmond, whose ranch is in the mountains a few miles north of Glen Ellen, is engaged at present in supplying the Home for Feeble Minded with stove wood. He has contracted to furnish 450 cords the present year. Mr. Esmond is still incapacitated from heavy work owing to an injury to one of his hands caused by being run down by a Southern Pacific train several months ago, and for which he has instituted suit against the company through his local attorney J. P. Rodgers of Petaluma.

Appointed Assignee.

A. G. Bulotti of this place has been appointed assignee of the estate of Pietro Cheda, the well-known Swiss dairyman of this place, who has been declared insolvent by the Superior Court of this county. The creditors met in Judge Dougherty's Court last Monday, proved their claims and selected Mr. Bulotti to take charge of the estate.

Trustee Bulotti of the Street Committee recommended that a new bridge be built on Fourth-street East before the winter rains set in.

Ordinances No. 49 and 50, relating to the water question, were passed to final reading and approved by President Seipp.

Trustee Modini moved that the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE be declared the official organ of the City of Sonoma. He also made a motion that more hitching posts be erected around the Plaza. No action was taken.

The following bills were ordered paid:

Mr. Von Geldern is one of the best-known civil engineers in this part of the State and is well-known to every old resident of Sonoma. He says there is an abundance of water in town and its immediate vicinity, but has not yet reported in favor of any particular source of supply. In time the artesian wells of Messrs. Schocken, Aguillon, Weyl, Gilbert, Mrs. Lawrence and the Schocken spring on the mountain side north of town will be examined and an official report made to the Trustees of their capacity and cost of acquisition.

Your Worst Enemy Writhing

With rheumatism is an individual whom, if you have a Christian spirit you would forgive. He is, no matter what his delinquencies, punished enough. Nothing short of Tophet could enhance his misery. Moreover, he is in serious peril. The disease is always prone to attack his heart and kill him instanter. As a means of curing this disease, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has the highest reputation and the most authoritative professional sanction. Its use in the preliminary stage of the complaint is the wisest precautionary measure rheumatic invalids can possibly adopt. The Bitters is also a remedy of the greatest utility in malarial and kidney trouble, dyspepsia and liver complaint, constipation and nervousness. It counteracts the effects of hardships and exposures in damp or inclement weather, and is a capital promoter of appetite and sleep. Give this fine remedy the persistent trial to which all medicines of standard reputation are entitled.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, SEPT. 5, 1896.

His Nerve Saved His Life.

Len Henry, a well known pioneer, relates an adventure that is out of the usual order. He was traveling on a narrow trail above the raging Grande Bonde river when he came to a landslide about 20 feet across that left no trail or even a niche in the smooth, precipitous rock. The trail was so narrow that the horse could not turn back. He was trapped. Above the 20 foot break in the trail was a sharp crag of overhanging rock. On his saddle bow was a strong riata 60 feet long, and Henry is an expert in the use of it. He steadied himself upon the saddle, swung the rope over his head and hurled it high into the air. It settled firmly over the crag. He tried it carefully. It was firm. His saddle was a new and strong one, with double cinches. Around the horn he wound the rope. He urged the horse on to the edge of the precipice.

The faithful beast stood firm. He would not step over, but the rider drew up the slack and pulled with all his power. Inch by inch he drew the straining horse forward till his feet slipped, and he swung over the chasm. The rider held his breath as he looked at the river below and the slender rope above, but he was across the gap. He sprang up the trail and tugged at the reins to aid the horse in gaining his feet. He pulled, and the horse lunged up into the trail with the chasm behind.—Anaconda Standard.

Witnesses Who See Through Glass.

"It is curious," says a Maine lawyer, "how prevalent the notion is that a person cannot testify as a witness in court to anything seen through glass. 'What would you do with all the folks that wear spectacles and see everything through glass?' asked a Maine judge not long ago, referring to this notion. If the glass through which an action or event was seen was wavy, so as to distort the appearance of objects, that fact might nowadays raise a doubt as to the reliability of the evidence, but could not exclude it. The prevailing notion doubtless had its rise in very ancient days, when all the glass in use for windows was very much warped and blurred. Such glass may be seen—a single pane of it—in the office of the little hotel in Cambridge village, framed and kept as a relic. Where such material was in use it is little wonder that a witness was prevented from testifying as to what he saw through it. It was in common use in England at the time of the settlement of New England, and naturally in the early homes of this continent it was the best that could be had. But such a rule where modern glass is in common use would be nonsense."—Lewiston Journal.

Lord Palmerston and the Turks,

In regard to the Turks themselves, may I venture to observe that the genius of their manners and conversation is that of yielding everything at first? They begin by saying, 'Good; yes.' But when you come to the matter in question and to its details you will find all those fine expressions mean nothing. Like all people in a weak position, they respect you according to their opinion of your force. If, however, you wish that force to have a permanent influence and to be unaccompanied by dislike, you must blend its exercise with justice; and, if you wish to arrive at a quick result through all that ambuscade of intrigues and doubts and fears and prejudices which will be sure to be secretly formed against it, you must tell the Turk what he is to do, why he is to do it, when he is to do it and show him that you only ask quietly and reasonably what you have a right to demand. In this way, and this way alone, you will do business with him. If he sees you act thus, he will not only agree with you, but rely upon you.—Lord Palmerston's Letters.

French as the Editor Knew It.

The editor sat in his snug office surrounded by all the conveniences and comforts that hedge editorial state. As he chatted with a visitor his pen idly traced the words "pants de suede" with great facility, and his face wore the most beatific expression.

"I didn't know you knew French," said the visitor.

"Well, I know those three words mighty well. I was once a proofreader on The Morning Breeze, as you know. Bramble Bros. sent in their Sunday ads. announcing an immense sale of 'pants de suede.' Unfortunately an imperfection in the paper turned a dash over the e into an i, and the compositor didn't do a thing but set up in flaming type, '100,000 pairs of pants de snide.' As proofreader I failed to catch the Franco-American joke, and my career trembled in the balance."—Chicago Tribune.

Not a Matter of Arithmetic.

"I hear you're very good at arithmetic, Bobby," said the visitor pleasantly.

"Sure," returned Bobby, without looking up from his play.

"Well, if I should tell you when your papa and your mamma were born, could you tell me how old they are?" asked the visitor.

"I could tell you how old pap is," answered the boy.

"And not how old your mother is?"

The boy shook his head.

"Arithmetic hasn't anything to do with that," he said.—Chicago Post.

A Jam of Mixed Fruits.

Very good jam can be made by mixing fruits, as raspberries and red currants, raspberries and gooseberries, and so on. Either apples or gooseberries mix nicely with almost all other fruits. The best way to use them is to make them into jelly, and add a proportion of this jelly to the other fruit while boiling.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The silver 3 cent piece, once familiar at the counters of postoffices, was authorized by act of congress March 3, 1851, and its coinage was begun the same year. Its coinage was discontinued Feb. 12, 1873.

The Essequibo.

The finest river of British Guiana is the Essequibo, into which flow the magnificent waters of the Cuyuni and the Mazaruni, forming a confluence at Bartica point over four miles broad, the stream then widening out through its subsequent course of 60 miles into an estuary 20 miles from bank to bank. The Essequibo rises in the Acaroi mountains, 40 miles north of the equator, and tears a sinuous way through and down the terraced surface for a distance of over 600 miles. It is not navigable for steamers much beyond Bartica point, and the farther it is explored the higher, grander, more beautiful and more dangerous become the rapids.

One of its tributaries, the Potaro, which joins it about 150 miles from the coast, has a waterfall surpassing Niagara in height. This is the Kaieteur fall (the Old Man's fall, to translate the Indian name), which was discovered by Mr. Brown, who made a geological survey for the government a quarter of a century ago. At this point the Potaro falls over a sandstone tableland precipitously for 741 feet, and then over a sloping cataract of 81 feet into a great rocky basin. In flood time the width of the fall is about 370 feet and in the dry season 240 feet or less. "If," says Mr. Thurn, "the whole valley of the Potaro is fairyland, then the Kaieteur ravine is the very penetralia of fairyland."—MacMillan's Magazine.

A Child's Costly Caprice.

A bridge which the sultan ordered to be constructed in Constantinople was to have been finished by a particular day, but the contractor found that this would be impossible with Turkish workmen unless he worked day and night. This he obtained leave to do, and the necessary lights and torches were supplied at the sultan's expense.

All went well for a time till the unfortunate contractor was told that he must open the bridge to let a ship from the dockyard pass through some time before the building was finished.

He said it was impossible, as he would have to pull everything down, and it would take two or three months to replace the scaffolding and pile driving machines. But the ministers of marine and finance said, "If the sultan says it must be done, it must, or we shall lose our places, if not our heads."

So the ship came out, at a cost of a little over £100,000 and a delay of three months in the completion of the bridge, all because the sultan found his small son crying in the harem one day, the child's grief being that, though he had been promised to be made an admiral, he could not see his flag hoisted on his particular ship from the nursery window.—Constantinople Letter.

Lavinia Fenton as Polly.

Lavinia Fenton, who had undertaken the character of Polly in the "Beggars' Opera" for the remuneration of 15 shillings per week, suddenly found herself the most celebrated person in London. Her portraits were sold everywhere, her opera costumes copied by fashionable ladies. When she went nightly to and from the theater, a bodyguard of strong friends had to be formed to escort her, lest the fair damsel should be carried off by one of her many importunate admirers. Lavinia's musical success ended with the run of the opera—after which she retired from the stage—but not so the good fortune it had won for her. The Duke of Bolton was so fascinated by her charms as the saucy Polly that he made her his duchess after the death of his wife, from whom he had long been separated, whereby Lavinia became the first of the actresses connected by marriage with English nobility.—Cornhill Magazine.

The Waves of an Iron Bridge.

A train always exerts greater strain on an iron bridge when going quickly than when going slowly, but the difference in the strain depends on the structure of the bridge and is much more in some cases than in others. When the train goes over the bridge, it causes a wave to travel along the structure, owing to the elasticity of the iron.

That part of the bridge just in front of the train is raised a little, and the part under the train is lowered, so that each part of the bridge is successively raised and lowered as the train goes over it, and the more quickly the train travels the more sudden this will be, and consequently the more violent.

The strain produced will vary with the square of the velocity of the wave, so that the train will exert four times the strain when it doubles its velocity, and nine times when it triples its velocity.—Liverpool Mercury.

All He Was Fit For.

The American says that in an Irish court recently an old man was called into the witness box, and being old and a little blind he went too far in more senses than one, and instead of going up the stairs that led to the box mounted those that led to the bench.

The judge took his mistake good humoredly.

"Is it a judge you want to be, my good man?" he asked.

"Ah, sure, your honor," was the reply, "I'm an ould man now, and mebbe it's all I'm fit for."

Virginia's Spread Eagle.

Exactly overhead, strange as it may seem, on the highest spring of the arch of Virginia's natural bridge, is a figure of a gigantic spread eagle, proudly perched in the very position in which it is seen on the American coat of arms.

Misunderstood.

PRICKLY ASH, POKE ROOT AND POTASSIUM

Makes Marvelous Cures in Blood Poison Rheumatism and Scrofula

P. P. P. purifies the blood, builds up the weak and debilitated, gives strength to weakened nerves, expels diseases, giving the patient health and happiness where sickness, gloomy feelings and lassitude first prevailed.

For primary, secondary and tertiary syphilis, for blood poisoning, mercurial poison, malaria, dyspepsia, and in all blood and skin diseases, like blotches, pimples, old chronic ulcers, tetter, scald head, boils, erysipelas, eczema—we may say, without fear of contradiction, that P. P. P. is the best blood purifier in the world, and makes positive, speedy and permanent cures in all cases.

Ladies whose systems are poisoned and whose blood is in an impure condition, due to menstrual irregularities, are peculiarly benefited by the wonderful tonic and blood cleansing properties of P. P. P.—Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 14th, 1893. —I can speak in the highest terms of your medicine from my own personal knowledge. I was affected with heart disease, pleurisy and rheumatism for 35 years, was treated by the very best physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, tried every known remedy without finding relief. I have only taken one bottle of your P. P. P., and can cheerfully say it has done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I can recommend your medicine to all sufferers of the above diseases.

Capt. J. D. Johnston.

To all whom it may concern: I hereby testify to the wonderful properties of P. P. P. for eruptions of the skin. I suffered for several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face. I tried every known remedy but in vain, until P. P. P. was used, and am now entirely cured.

Skin Cancer Cured.

Testimony from the Mayor of Sequin, Tex.

SEQUIN, TEX., January 14, 1893.
MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.: Gentlemen—I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually known as skin cancer, of thirty years' standing, and found great relief. It purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the sores. I have taken five or six bottles and feel confident that another course will effect a cure. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach troubles. Yours truly,
CAPT. W. M. RUST,
Attorney at Law.
